Computer Guidance Announces New eCMS 3.6® Customer – AGI General Contracting

Scottsdale, Arizona – September 20, 2008 – Computer Guidance Corporation, the leading developer of financial and project management software solutions for the commercial construction industry, announced that AGI General Contracting has joined the growing list of contractors making the move to the eCMS accounting solution to manage their rapidly growing business.

Founded in 1978 in Stanton, California, AGI is a full-service general contractor specializing in commercial construction for some of the area's leading businesses. AGI has successfully completed projects in a wide range of industries, from grocery stores and retail developments to theme parks and restaurants.

The eCMS 3.6 web interface applications from Computer Guidance Corporation provide AGI with solutions that will make the company more efficient, including fully automated capabilities for payroll and accounts receivable/billing systems that eliminate the need for manual input of data. The eCMS 3.6 suite combines 30 unified applications that will enable AGI to integrate its operational and financial systems. The company will also take advantage of productivity tools such as document imaging, electronic workflow, and electronic forms management, all from the convenience of a web browser.

"Previously running on QuickBooks™ for accounting and Primavera Expedition for project management, AGI wanted to upgrade to a single system that could integrate all its business processes," noted Ron Kaplan, Business Development Manager at Computer Guidance. "The eCMS applications will enable the company to eliminate all manual paper processing, while reducing costs and streamlining operations."

Computer Guidance has the largest customer representation in the Engineering News Record (ENR) "Top 400 Contractors" and "Top 50 Contractors." Computer Guidance software has been the leading solution among General Contractors with revenue of more than 250-million dollars and 100-250-million dollars for the past twelve years according to the CFMA Information Technology Survey.
